2018 Annual Report

CREDIT UNION 2 0 1 8 ANNUAL OF COLORADO REPORT

Board of Directors' Report

Will Fleckenstein, Ph.D., Chairperson

As your Board of Directors, our primary goal is to make sure that every time a member interacts with our credit union, the experience is a great one: yesterday, today and tomorrow. The whole Credit Union: volunteers, management and staff, are committed to a strategic vision that always puts the member first.

So how do we really know if we are delivering on that vision? Simply put, we regularly seek input from staff, and most importantly, we ask you the member how we are doing. Here are the results. In 2018, nearly 97% of our members who responded to our annual survey said they were either satisfied or very satisfied with the overall service they receive from Credit Union of Colorado, and 81% said they would be members for life! We are really happy with that, but we can and must do more, as technology helps us to help you.

Although we are one of the largest credit unions in Colorado, we seek to act like a small credit union. That is, we make every effort to treat each member like family or a dear friend. When we make decisions, we keep this goal in mind. And while we have the tools, team, and technology to compete with big banks, we always strive to deliver in a "small credit union way." Acting like a small credit union also translates to being deeply involved in every community we serve. This commitment comes via our support of the Credit Union of Colorado Foundation and the efforts of our employees who passionately volunteer their time around the state. In 2018, the Foundation granted awards that eclipsed $200,000, including scholarships and assistance to CSEAP. On the employee side, nearly 200 employees contributed over 850 hours of their time to important causes.

Finally, when you help people, good things happen. Our financials in 2018 were in great shape. While we certainly pay attention to financial performance, and take action when needed, we believe this performance is the result of facilitating a process where members can help each other. A true financial cooperative that exists for the financial betterment of all.

In closing, on behalf of my fellow board members, thank you for the privilege of serving our Credit Union.

Treasurer's Report

Dann Milne, Ph.D., Secretary/Treasurer

Throughout 2018, a wave of economic opportunity for consumers and the financial institutions that serve them was in the spotlight. And Credit Union of Colorado was poised to capitalize on the state's relatively strong economy. Equipped with a wide array of products and services, market-leading credit card offerings, and the ability to efficiently manage increasing loan demand, your credit union generated strong results. These results included superior performance in membership growth, deposit and loan gains, and robust financials

KEY METRICS:

- •Membership: The number of new members reflected the overall demand for the credit union's products and service. Membership grew 7.71%. from 120.191 to 129.458.
- Deposits: The sizeable growth in membership helped deposits grow 3.71%, from $1.30 billion to $1.35 billion.
- Loans: In 2018, our loan portfolio grew by $134.9 million driven by our vehicle and home equity loan segments, each contributing $76.4 million and $37.7 million, respectively, of the total portfolio growth. The number of new and used auto loans generated in 2018 was 13,270; this compares to 10,036 in 2017.
- Net Income: We generated healthy results, with net income of $13.44 million compared to $9.38 million in 2017.

We are grateful to our management and our Internal Audit Department for achieving this success. In addition, we want to acknowledge the contribution of the external CPA firm of Holben Hay Lake Balzer CPAs LLC. The firm audited and tested our internal audit controls. Further, the firm provided an opinion audit with respect to our financial statements and verified they were in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. As always, we appreciate the firm's guidance in meeting the myriad regulatory requirements and ensuring that our member shareholders' interests are protected.

Management Report

Terry Leis, President/CEO

In 2018, it was the best of times, and the worst of times. It was the best of times in that we were able to improve our branch network, continue on our path of financial strength and stability, and build upon an innovation culture to better serve membership. It was the worst of times in that we did not meet our high standards for digital banking access and functionality, performance that other financial institutions might find acceptable.

To address our biggest area of opportunity, we laid the groundwork to improve mobile and online banking as we looked to improve both system availability and feature functionality. I am pleased to report as a result of this 2018 preparation we will launch a new digital platform in early 2019 that will significantly improve the experience for members using a smartphone, tablet or desktop to conduct business with us. This new platform will be faster, more secure, and easier to use. Members will even be able to access their account with an Apple Watch or other wearable device!

Innovation was a high priority for the Credit Union across the organization. We introduced new tools to help foster and implement new ideas. Much of the change we saw introduced as a result of this effort was incremental change, fine-tuning our business. While on the surface these changes may not seem significant, it is often the little things that make the difference in our day-to-day interactions with members.

It is important to note other innovations beyond the work on our new digital platform, was accomplished in 2018 as well. One such innovation we are excited about is called a data warehouse. You've probably heard the term big data before. Well, a data warehouse is where we store and analyze data. Analysis of this data helps us forecast business trends, analyze market opportunities, and solve problems more quickly. To put it simply, a data warehouse gives us better information to access and leverage in order to create more value for our members and to help our credit union thrive in a competitive marketplace.

All this innovation includes our branches as well. We continue to actively explore potential new branch locations. In 2018, we moved our Fort Collins branch to a new, much more functional facility designed to improve the member experience. In 2019, we will open a branch in the Highlands Ranch area that will include new technological convenience

We're excited about our performance in 2018. More importantly, we are committed to never outgrow our focus of members first. Scale and strength allows us to provide more services for more people, we will never lose sight of our mission to always be here to help.

I am proud that everything we do at Credit Union of Colorado is based on delivering the best value for our members. That's our promise to you, now and in the future.
